Automobile Club Urges
Road Repair Work Now

Extensive highway improvement in Delaware, Chester, Bucks and Montgomery counties will be undertaken shortly, according to assurances received by the Keystone Automobile Club from Warren VanDyke, Secretary of Highways.

J. Borton Weeks, president of the Club, made that announcement yesterday, following a talk with Mr. VanDyke in which he stressed the necessity for immediate work on roads damaged by the severe winter. Supplementing his verbal request for quick action, Mr. Weeks sent a letter to Secretary VanDyke, in which he said: "Recently this Club has received a great many complaints concerning the condition of various State highways in the vicinity of Philadelphia. Within the past week, this chorus has become louder and more vehement."

"Specifically, the roads most frequently complained of are the Baltimore Pike, west of Painter's Cross Roads, both in Delaware and Chester counties; the Wilmington-West Chester Pike, from West Chester three miles eastward, and the Concord Pike, from Chester to Concordville. The last named is probably in the worst shape of any State highway around Philadelphia in recent years."

"The maintenance of road shoulders, which is one of the things which has in the past contributed much to the safety of Pennsylvania highways, seems to be at a low ebb. On the U. S. 1 by-pass, newly constructed of concrete from Llanerch to State Road, the shoulders are mud, and I can testify to the number of cars which have gone off the road and been stuck in the mud at the point where this road narrows from three to two lanes."

"I appreciate the weather difficulties that have been confronting you, but now that it apparently will be possible to do some active work, I am hopeful that some real progress can be made promptly toward remedying these conditions, having in mind especially the fact that the greatest concentration of both population and motor vehicles in this State is in Philadelphia and its adjoining counties."

TONSILS REMOVED

Mrs. May Callahan, Morrisville, was operated upon yesterday morning, at Harriman Hospital, having her tonsils removed.

LEAVES HOSPITAL

Mrs. Samuel Spangler, Maple street, has returned to her home after spending a week in the Hahnemann Hospital, Philadelphia, under observation.

WINNERS IN THE EVENTS

Bicycle races, roller skating contests, competition at marbles, and free movies were all on the list for the youths of Bristol, Edgely and Croydon, yesterday, as some of the features of Youth Week here.

The bicycle and roller skating races took place on Radcliffe street during the early evening when that thoroughfare from Green Lane to Mulberry street, was turned into a race course. Police were stationed along the route and Chief Jones in the fire chief's car headed each race. Not a single accident occurred to mar the occasion.

Three Edgely boys walked away with the honors in the bicycle race for senior boys as Jacob DeWilde, first; John Michael, second; and Elwin Gould, third, out-rode all competitors. In the bicycle race for junior girls the honors went to Julia Firce, while Thelma Hart finished second. Both girls are from Edgely.

In the bicycle race for junior boys only one contestant reported. He was sent over the course and declared the winner. He gave his name as John Ruszin, sixth ward.

In the bicycle race for junior girls, Frances Tracy, second ward, finished first, followed by Doris Peters, Edgely, and Marion Burton, first ward, following as third.

The roller skating contests were closely contested and Thelma Johnson, colored, fourth ward, the winner for the fourth consecutive time, rolled in ahead of the others in the senior event. Rosemary McGee, second ward, glided over the line for second place, while Eleanor Petollilo, fifth ward, was the third to finish.

Anthony Stallone, fourth ward, who also topped the first honors in the senior skating event on three other occasions, won the honors for the fourth consecutive time, last night. Stallone said he would be too old to compete next year. Wayne Mulholland, sixth ward, won second honors in the senior event for the second consecutive year. Chet VanAken, sixth ward, won the third place in the same event.

The junior girls' roller skating race was hotly contested and the second place winner was somewhat in dispute. The two girls finished so closely that some said one was ahead while

A MODEL DEMOCRATIC PLATFORM

(New York American, March 29, 1936)

By BENJAMIN DeCASSERES

The most difficult task before the National Democratic Convention, which will meet in Philadelphia next June, will be the adoption of a suitable platform.

I suggest that the party give to the country the following declaration of principles and pledges:

We solemnly reaffirm the principles of the Democratic Party as enunciated in the COMMUNIST and SOCIALIST Party platforms as adopted at their national conventions in 1932.

We emphatically repudiate the doctrines of the deluded founder of the Democratic Party, Thomas Jefferson, whose outmoded theory of individual liberty belongs to what our peerless leader has called "horse-and-buggy days."

After more than three years of power the Democratic Party points with pride to this unparalleled record:

We have increased the public debt from $23,000,000,000 to $32,000,000,000.

We have spent $22,000,000,000 of the taxpayers' money without starting a revolution.

We have kept the budget completely unbalanced in spite of the selfish demands of the parasites of "intrenched greed" and the members of "well-stocked clubs" that it should be balanced.

We point with pride to the fact that the national deficit remains substantially the same, and is even a little higher, than when our party came into power.

We call to the attention of the taxpayers of the country that we appropriated IN ONE SESSION OF CONGRESS ALONE the sum of TEN THOUSAND MILLION DOLLARS.

For the good of these taxpayers we have taken out of their pockets ONE-THIRD OF THEIR INCOME where previous Administrations were content to take only an eighth or a quarter.

Our Democratic Congress gave to our President a check for $4,880,000,000 to be spent without any accounting to Congress, and thus gave to the world-hungry masses the new word "BOONDOGLING."

We have increased Federal Office holders from a puny 600,000 to NEARLY 900,000 and have thrown the archaic Civil Service merit system overboard.

We point with pride to a President who invited Congress to pass a bill whether IT WAS CONSTITUTIONAL OR NOT. We denounce the Supreme Court of the United States as an unconstitutional body of nine usurpers.

We denounce the Constitution of the United States as an anti-Comintern document, and make a solemn pledge to the people, in the event of four more years of power, to see that it goes the way of all the doctrines of the crackbrained Founding Fathers.

We point with pride to the recognition of poor little strug-

FOUR YOUTHS HELD FOR COURT ON THEFT CHARGEYoungest of the Group Will Be Taken Before The Juvenile Session

ALL PLEAD GUILTY

One of the four Philadelphia youths arrested yesterday morning and charged with breaking and entering St. Thomas Aquinas Church and the Tisher gas station at Croydon, was held for juvenile court, last night, while the other three were held without bail for court.

All four at a hearing before Justice of Peace James Laughlin in the Municipal Building, here, entered a plea of guilty.

The four were taken to the Bucks County jail at Doylestown last night. The prisoners were slated as: Albert Morgan, 17, 2430 E. Fifth street.

George Placher, 20, 2412 N. Waterloo street.
Harris Kelly, 19, 2405 E. Gordon street.
John McMullin, 15, 1933 N. Palethorpe street.

Five witnesses appeared against the Philadelphia quartette. The only testimony given by the boys was their plea of guilty.

Harry E. Sweltzer, Croydon, and the sexton of St. Thomas Aquinas Church, both testified that the church had been entered and the poor boxes broken open on a number of occasions. The altar was disarranged and numerous articles displaced.

Ernest Tisher, proprietor of the gas station, told of the place being robbed on Easter Sunday of cigars and cigarettes valued at about $18. A number of gallons of gasoline were also taken. The place was again entered on April 27th, when the police were called and made the four arrests.

Bucks County Detective Anthony Russo told of being called by Constable Seaders at about 1.45 Monday morning after Constable Seaders had arrested Placher and Kelly. Russo learned that two others were implicated but had started for Philadelphia. Russo and Seaders gave chase in Russo's car and the lads walking along the Bristol Pike, near Cornwells Heights, thumbed Russo's car and asked for a ride. The boys were picked up about 300 feet apart. They were brought back to Bristol and admitted their guilt. All four signed statements, Russo testified.

Constable Joseph Seaders, Bristol township, told of being present when the boys signed the statements.

Silver Lake Project
Still Held in Abeyance

At the regular monthly meeting of the Bucks County Federation of Sportsman's Clubs held at Doylestown, last night, many topics were discussed.

Mr. Rowe reported that the County Treasurer seemed reluctant in complying with the request of the Federation to enforce strictly the issuing of hunting and fishing licenses. The law states that a person must prove his identity and if an alien must produce his naturalization papers before a license is issued to him.

With this report in hand the Federation is planning to take the necessary steps to enforce the law.

The Silver Lake project at Bristol was discussed, and it seems that after a revamping of the present plans, which will also cut about $100,000 from the original estimate of $380,000, it is possible that it may go through sometime in June, if W. P. A. officials at Washington do not again reject it.

The canal was also discussed and according to Mr. Joel Young, if it is not repaired very shortly bass fishing in there will be out of the question.

The sluiceway at New Hope is hopelessly filled and will have to be dredged before water will flow into the canal.

The canal bank just below Bowman's Hill is washed out several feet and a great deal of water is running out at that point. However, at the present time, the canal ownership is in the Courts and until a decision is handed down the canal will not be stocked with fish or repaired.

Mr. Diebler, chairman of the Fish Commission, is planning to make an inspection tour of the fish streams in the very near future. He is to be accompanied by members of his board and it is hoped that he will be able to get better fishing in this district.

A committee was appointed to take charge of the inspection. In the upper section of the county Allan Grant is to act as chairman, while C. Rowe was to have charge of the central section. In the lower section Ronald Swain was appointed chairman, along with Mr. Radcliffe, and also a member of the Morrisville club, and also Yardley.

The lower district was represented at the Federation by Ralph Ratcliffe and John Johnson, Bristol Fish and Game Association; Samuel Heggings, Ronald Swain and Harry Pittman of the Edgely Rod and Gun Club.

Her veil was of net, made cap shape with the crown of maline, edged with plaited satin braid. The bride's bouquet was a spray of white calla lilies.

Miss Lillian Liberatore attended her sister as maid of honor. She looked charming in a gown of blue lace, made Ginger Roger style. The bridesmaid was Miss Dorothy Liberatore, Bristol, cousin of the bride. Her dress was similar to that of the maid of honor, but being peach-colored, with the accessories in blue. She also carried President Harding roses.

The groom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Milanese, was attended by Nicholas Calontino, Philadelphia. A reception was tendered the newlyweds at the home of the groom's parents, Philadelphia. AUTO SALES KEEP UP

The way spring automobile sales are going it certainly is not too early to proclaim the success of the industry's experiment with the fall introduction of new models.

The scheme was to spread new car demand more evenly over the year by inducing the public to express some of its buying interest in the fall, leaving the spring market to be taken care of by the "natural" revival of demand which always has accompanied the advent of good driving weather.

Exactly that has happened, and the least that may be said of the experiment at this point is that it has transformed the industry's production curve from a camel, with one hump, into a dromedary, with two. For more than six months now it has been operating at a steady clip with no more important interruption than the brief and by no means severe one which came in February, seemingly as a sort of spring between the winter and spring buying periods.

The important thing is that it has taken the industry at least six months this time, as against the four months usual heretofore, to reach the peak of its production and selling campaign. To that extent, at least, the fall model scheme has "regularized" production schedules. Meanwhile, moreover, there is no present indication that the public's fall and winter buying has taken the edge off the market or that production will not hold up fairly well until past August 1 as it did last year of fall model introduction.

The strength of the spring sales, following those of fall and winter, might be explained on the ground that every six month nowadays brings a host of new depression-hungry customers into the motor market. But it seems to us that, with March sales the biggest for any March in the industry's history, only excepting 1929, that explanation alone does not suffice. At least a probability is created that production would have been equally well regularized in a year of "normal," and not increasing demand.

As for the experiment's value to the industry, we have only to imagine the strain it now would be under at the March-April peak, if some of its customers had not already been supplied with cars during the fall and winter.

EVERYBODY'S BUSINESS

The old saying was that "What's everybody's business is nobody's business." There are certain things to do in every community, which everyone can see should be done, but it is not the business of anyone in particular to do them. Such things go undone, until a town forms organizations to get them done. Then it is up to the officers and members of those organizations to do them. In that way a well organized town gets results and removes obstacles to progress and disagreeable conditions, while the unorganized towns drift along in the old rut, with the old undesirable features existing year after year.

To get everybody's business attended to, a town must have good organizations. These organizations will have to do some real work, and they must be given the backing of large and enthusiastic memberships.

It isn't too early to begin looking about for a rugged young Amazon to play this year's Queen of May.

"THERE'S MURDER IN THE AIR"

by ROY CHANSLOR

CHAPTER XXIV

They drove to Manhattan, to Center Street. Tyler sent in his name. The captain on duty returned immediately and showed them into Commissioner John Kilrane's office. The Commissioner greeted Tyler heartily. They shook hands, and Tyler introduced Gordon. Kilrane was flattered and impressed.

Very sketchily, Tyler explained that Gordon and his family were being menaced by assassins. He asked if they could look at photographs of known racketeers, those of standing and power. Kilrane was glad to oblige. He accompanied them to the Bureau of Identification. They pored over photographs, but Gordon could recognize none of them.

"Of course we've only got the mugs of those with criminal records," said Kilrane. "Lots of them are too smart ever to get caught in anything that's not legit. Those are the most dangerous. We're less to deal with them. All their dirty work is done by hired hoodlums."

He ran through a list of half a dozen names: Flush Goldman, Danny Crew, Jim Gabriel, Nick Ramponio, Guido Morio, Butch Cargone. "We haven't got a thing on any of these birds," said Kilrane. "Yet we're pretty sure they're all in the racket. They've got too much dough to come by legitimately. The Federal men have tried to hook them on the income-tax gag, but they're too smart for that too. They always file returns for one dollar that can be checked against them."

After they had returned to the Commissioner's office, Tyler drew from a pocket the faded newspaper picture of Joe Gaudin, which Nat had obtained at the Star's morgue. "Mean anything to you, Jack?" Kilrane stared at the picture for a long moment, scratched his head. "It's—just faintly familiar," he said regretfully, "but I don't quite make it. I must have seen this guy somewhere—or his picture. Guess it must've been a long time ago."

"The name's Gaudin," said Tyler. "Joe Gaudin."

But Kilrane shook his head again, after a moment. "He and his family kidnapped a boy in Chicago sixteen or seventeen years ago," Tyler said, trying to prod the man's memory. "Wait!" Kilrane said. He threw back his head, closed his eyes. Then he smote his palms together. "I've got it," he said. "Sure, Joe Gaudin! Something about a jail break. This guy got away clean. I was just a precinct dick—detective," he corrected, hastily. "There was a general alarm at the time. I don't seem to recall whether they ever collared him."

"They didn't," said Tyler. "And he's the man we're looking for now."

Kilrane looked at the photograph. "It's been a long time, he said. 'But I tell you what I'll do, I'll revive that alarm. I don't say we'll be able to pick him up, now. But we may.'"

In the afternoon they returned to the estate. Carlotta, Doris, Nat and Johnson were waiting for them when they got out of the car. Gordon assured them all that Helene was in good hands.

"Can't we go and see her tomorrow, take her some things?" Doris asked.

"We want to wait until she's entirely recovered," said Gordon.

"But it wouldn't hurt to take her some flowers or some candy," said Carlotta. "The poor child, she'll be lonely."

"We'll see," said Gordon. "At least we can send her something," said Doris. "Give me the address, and—"

"I'll see that she gets it," said Gordon quickly.

Doris flashed a glance at him. "Oh!" she said. "You don't want me to know where she is?"

She turned and hurried away. Gordon impulsively started to follow her, but Carlotta touched his arm.

"Don't, Paul," she said gently. "Doris is still upset. You mustn't pay any attention. I'll try to explain to her that Helene needs absolute quiet."

"Thank you, dear," said Gordon gratefully.

Next day Gordon telephoned Dr. Peters, who said that Helene had

The Musings of A Native Son--

A Weekly Commentary on Things of Local Interest which will appear each Tuesday in this column.

As I sat in the Presbyterian Church one evening last week and participated in the exercises incident to the celebration of the 90th anniversary of the founding of the church, I could not help but think of the minister, who with abundant faith in God, and a belief in the dignity of manual labor, actually laid the foundation of this religious denomination in Bristol.

If anyone has a doubt about a personal God and that help from Him cannot be relied upon in a time of need, he has only to read the story of Rev. Harlow's discouragements, his sturdy faith and his ultimate triumphs. He believed in a personal God and the efficacy of prayer. He believed also, that faith without work is dead.

Accordingly he took off his coat and went to work, determined to do his part and trusted in God to do His. With his own hands he dug for the foundations, and with a horse and cart he hauled the stones to fill in the excavations. The lumber, which was rafted over the river from Burlington, and the bricks, which came down the canal from Yardley, he hauled to the church lot. After he had done his part and done it well, God's influence became manifest, and financial help came unexpectedly from Burlington, and in due time the church edifice was completed amid the rejoicing of a happy people.

Last week I went to see a circus. It was a good one, but it had three rings and it was impossible to follow the exhibits in all three rings at one time. At intervals the clowns made their appearance, but somehow the kick I used to get out of the old-time circus was no longer in evidence. I began to wonder if old age was beginning to dim and destroy the enthusiasm of youth. This, however, I was not ready to admit, and began to look for another reason.

Suddenly it dawned upon me that the introduction of additional rings and the consequent destruction of the old one-ring circus, was the real cause of my dirth of enthusiasm. I remembered how we sat around the single ring and not a thing escaped our notice. The clown was the greatest asset of the circus. He was not only a fun-maker, but an actor, vocalist and acrobat all combined. At one time he would stand upon a box and sing "The Man on the Flying Trapeze" and in the next few minutes would give an unsurpassed performance on the horizontal bar or a humorous exhibition on a tight wire. He was in evidence throughout the entire performance and relied upon his versatility and ingenuity to entertain his audience. His jokes, his songs, his repartee, would linger in our memory for weeks after the circus had gone.

And so I came to realize that the multiplication of rings and the elimination of the old-time circus clowns were the real causes which had destroyed the enthusiasm of my youth. What a joy it would be to many of us, if we could see again, those old one-ring circuses such as Paugy O'Brien's, McGinley's, and Coles'. I think that our children might feel the thrill that we felt, as we hurried down Otter street on the morning of the circus, and waited at the old nursery opposite the Bristol cemetery, for the circus wagons to appear.

others contended that the other was the first to cross the line Evelyn Shores, Edgely, finished first, while Margaret Brownlee, third ward, and Betty Blanche, first ward, finished almost together.

William Sufas, first ward, won the junior roller skating event for boys, while Robert Bauroth, sixth ward, came in second, and Michael Robertson, first ward, ended in third place. The "mibs" championship was won by "Eggie" Howell, second ward, when he outplayed all-comers on the Elks' tennis court yesterday afternoon. He defeated boys of five different districts and thus took the 1936 crown.

Six districts were represented in the tournament with Crofton and the sixth ward being the only two not represented.

Three games were played in the first round and Howell defeated Dougherty of the third ward, LaPolla of the first ward won over Singer of the fourth ward while Pica of the fifth was victorious over Swangler, of Edgely.

In the finals an attempt was made to use the three boys and too many ties resulted. It was necessary for Dr. G. Austin Bisbee, who was in charge, to toss a coin to determine who should play in the semi-final Howell and LaPolla tossed to play each other and the winner was to play Pica for the championship.

Howell took the first two games and in the finals he easily defeated Pica to win the crown.

Hurrying and scurrying from school rooms all over the borough, girls of all ages up to 16 and 17 filled the Grand Theatre yesterday afternoon, where as guests of manager Edward Lynn they enjoyed a song fest, and a motion picture show.

Whether they enjoyed the great ling led by Percy G. Ford or the "movies" the more, it was difficult for the girls to decide, for all had a big "kick" watching the antics of the genial song leader, as he put the girls through their paces.

When the hundreds of young folks sang "The Man on the Flying Trapeze" Mr. Ford obliged most willingly by attempting to "fly" as the song progressed. And in such realistic manner did he give imitations as he showed how "The Music Goes 'Round and Around" that the girls wanted to sing it again and again.

And so the song fest progressed, with Bristol's future women singing "America," "Wa-Hoo," "Goodie, Goodie," "School Days," "There's a Long, Long Trail Awaiting." At the organ, Blanche Washburn presided.

Then the motion picture program was launched, the pictures being: "Thunder Mountain," featuring George O'Brien; "Dance Shy," a comedy; and "Radio Rascals."

Three rousing cheers for Mr. Lynn, the host of the afternoon, were led by Mr. Ford, and the girls used their vocal chords more lustily than when they sang.

Manager Lynn showed his young guests a piece of petrified wood brought from the petrified forests of Arizona by his daughter. He also issued an invitation to all the girls to participate in the treasure hunt on Thursday afternoon at four o'clock.

Program of Merit Presented As The County PTA Meets

address by Dr. Joseph W. Seay, and remarks by county superintendent J. H. Hoffman, assistant superintendents, A. C. Rutter and Charles Boehm, and Mrs. Edwin F. Yarnall, Pottstown, chairman of Southeastern District of the State Council of Parents and Teachers.

Mr. Rutter, Perkasee, who responded to the address of welcome, said he wished that he could dispel the fear that is sometimes felt between the parents and teachers, or between eighth grade pupils and county superintendent.

Mrs. Flood announced the meeting of the State Parent and Teacher Congress to be held in Harrisburg October 14, 15 and 16. She told that one new association had been organized at Miller's School, Rockhill township. Mrs. Perkins announced that 19 associations in the council have a total membership of 1452 persons. Benjamin Zeilen, chairman of the Founders' Day Fund, reported $17.75 received, an increase over last year. Mrs. Lamb reported $1 received from each of the student organizations in the County the student fund.

Mrs. Evan P. Stover, chairman of the parent-teacher magazine committee reported a total of 82 subscriptions. Mill Creek Home and School Association sent 30 subscriptions.

Miss Rae Komenarski, county publicity chairman, announced a total of 25 associations in Bucks County and that the county parent-teacher association publicity paper is ready for distribution.

Mrs. Francis J. Rossbauer, county chairman of parent education, said this year "streamlining" the parent-teacher association with parent education is being accomplished. It aims to give parents an opportunity to change their attitudes towards their children and their behavior. There are three courses in parent education, that of the pre-school child, the grade school child and the high school student.

A study group demonstration was conducted by Samuel K. Faust, superintendent of Bensalem schools. In this was a class of ten members of the Cornwall Heights association. The topic Mr. Faust presented to the class was "Outside interests that help to educate and broaden the viewpoint of all members of the family."

Dr. Seay said: "We should help establish interests in the home and radiate cheerfulness. One of the real uses of leisure time is to help make some one happy." Dr. Seay said he has a five-point standard for the program of leisure time. This includes the basis, motive, method, law and objective. Basis, it was said, should represent faith, motive, service, method, cooperation; law, the Golden Rule, and objective, character. The latter must be the result of many hours of work.

Miss Komenarski awarded the prizes for the publicity posters as follows: First, Eleanor Fromuth, Richboro high school; second, Dorothy Hahn, Slies grade school; third, Paul Feld, Miller School, East Rockhill; Mrs. John Cuthbertson, county chairman of summer round-up activities, made a plea for more work in the interest of the child of pre-school age.

A playlet, "Wise Use of Leisure Time," was presented by the Featherstone Parent-Teacher Association. This was written by Mrs. Murray, a member of the association.

Officers were elected, and then installed by Mrs. Yarnall: President, Mrs. John A. Flood; first vice-president, Mrs. Ralph M. Fox; second vice-president, Albert C. Rutter; third vice-president, Benjamin Zeilen; fourth vice-president, Mrs. Irvin L. MacNair; secretary, Mrs. Joseph Hallowell, and treasurer, Mrs. H. C. Lamb.

Dr. Green, during his address, said he believes parents and teachers have on their hands the biggest business in the world, that of shaping the life of the normal child. "We betide us, if we are indifferent to the job," he added. Referring to Charles H. Dickinson's poem, "The Children," Dr. Green said some credit the poem to the English Charles Dickens, but that it belongs to the American writer and American literature. He told that he had been teaching many years because he wanted to get rich, not rich in money, but in memories. "Three things must be kept in mind in dealing with children, know them, love them and help them." In reference to this Dr. Green said: "If you are going to know children and teach them as we should, we should not get old or cold. In dealing with children we do well if we love the lovely, and it is they who very often need it most and respond most to the treatment. Not only know them and love them, but help them. Help them to be as beautiful in mind and body as God intended they should. If we want to help them, hear them, and see their point of view. If we want to help our children, we will make readers of them."

Miss Isabel McCoy, Bensalem, gave two soprano solos.

The picnic committee, will include Howard Hanover, Mr. Bixler, Mr. Charles, Mrs. Coles, Mr. Ashbridge, Elmer Pickett, Miss Nellie Mann, Mrs. Evan P. Stover, Miss Rae Komenarski and Mrs. Ehlman.

A pin oak tree dedication program was opened with music by the high school orchestra and recitations were given by several pupils from the school. The tree, presented by assistant county superintendent Charles H. Boehm in honor of Mrs. Edwin F. Yarnall, was dedicated by Mr. Faust.

LANGHORNE TAKES LEAD IN SCHOOL LEAGUE

By Jack Orr

Seven errors contributed by the Bristol High defense aided Coach Howard Beck's Langhorne nine to take the Lower Bucks County League lead by defeating the Cardinal and Gray here yesterday by the count of 10-5.

It was the fourth consecutive win for the Langhorne aggregation and places them a full game to the fore of the Bunnies. The red and blue holds victories over Bristol, Morrisville, Bensalem and Fallsington.

Both clubs used a pair of twirlers in the seven innings of milling. Billy "Red" Gallagher started for the locals and was relieved in the sixth frame by Stan "Parrot" Dick. Butch Derry was Beck's choice for mound duty but Billie McCahan came to his rescue in the third after Charlie Hughes' first base hit of the year—a two bagger—had driven across a trio of tallies.

Gallagher yielded a run in the first and a pair in the third but found himself in hot water continually after his frame. Atrocious fielding by his mates helped the Langhorne cause not a little.

With the score tied away at 5-5 Langhorne sewed up the ball game with four tallies in the sixth. Donnelly opened up with his third walk of the contest. Cloud smashed a single to right. Stradling, a port sided catcher, stopped one and it rolled in front of the plate. Jesse VanZant rifled the apple to third but the third sacker missed the bag and the bases were filled with one gone.

An error by Charlie Hughes scored a pair of runs on the next play. Derry fanned as Parrot Dick made his debut in the box. Carter whistled one to center and as McKenna tried to score Bauroth threw to the plate to nail the red and blue first sacker. Lawrence angled Carter across and McCahan rolled out to end the inning. Score: Langhorne, 9; Bristol, 5.

A home run by Paul Cloud accounted for the final visiting tally.

McCahan pitched fine ball in his five innings on the peak, fanning 6 and walking but 1. Gallagher passed four and failed to strike out a man in his workout and Dick whiffed a trip while giving a single man a free trip.

Butch Derry with three bingles out of four visits to the plate was the leading Langhorne slugger closely followed by Al Lawrence and Paul Cloud with two for three.

The local batsmen were led by Johnnie Dick with three base hits out of four trips to the pentagon while Harry Bauroth and Tom Profy each had two hits to their credit.

Today the Bunnies travel to Cornwall Heights to meet Bensalem in the first meeting of these clubs this year.

1935. Mayor Stockham, before he signed the measure asked the treasurer and solicitor whether the rate was the same as last year and when assured that it was he signed. A week later it was discovered that the rate was higher. Since the ordinance had been advertised it was decided to let it remain a law.

Headed by Harry M. Lair as chairman, a committee of 50 men will canvass Morrisville and vicinity to raise $6,000 with which to rehabilitate those families who suffered in the recent floods. A house to house canvass will be made next Thursday and Friday nights and the funds will be handed over to the Red Cross for the work of rehabilitation. One family has lost their home and even their building lot as a 39 foot hole is now found where the cellar of the home was. Other homes have been badly damaged, cellar walls washed away and another home undermined so that it toppled over.

Ever since the flood the Red Cross has been doing a noble work here. Families who were afflicted have been assisted. Quarters were found for some of the folks, food, medicines, clothing

THEODORE R. GARDNER FOR CONGRESS

Two years ago, when the New Deal was at the height of its influence, Theodore R. Gardner of Lehigh County, was the unanimous choice of the outstanding Republicans of that County for the Republican nomination for Congress.

The fact he was a young man was regarded as one of his greatest assets, and the argument in this respect was, that our problems being what they are, coupled with the likelihood that several years will elapse before the Republicans can come into the control of the Senate, Mr. Gardner possessed a life expectancy which would enable him, by successive re-elections, to gain the knowledge, the experience and the prestige of continued service which would make him an invaluable asset to his party and his constituency alike.

Mr. Gardner campaigned in Bucks County, and these arguments, combined with his character and evident ability, so impressed the Republicans of Bucks County, that in the November Election of 1934 they gave him a substantial majority.

Mr. Gardner, a lawyer and United States Commissioner, born in Allentown, a graduate from Muhlenberg College and the University of Pennsylvania Law School, who served a two-year enlistment in the United States Navy, at the expiration of which he was honorably discharged, possesses the same qualifications today as he did two years ago, but strangely enough, he is being opposed for the Republican nomination at the approaching Primary by one who was foremost among those who prevailed upon him to make the canvass, two years ago and under far less promising circumstances.

Shall the man who was willing to carry the standard in 1934, be turned down now because others desire to step in when they see the assurance of Republican victory in this contest?

We ask your support of acknowledged ability, straightforward integrity and fair play, by marking your ballot for Theodore R. Gardner for Congress, at the Primary Election, Tuesday, April 28th.

TONY MAGLIONE ONLY BRISTOL BOY TO GAIN A VICTORY IN ST. ANN'S ARENA; PHILA. FIGHTERS WIN NINE BOUTS

By T. M. Juno

Philadelphia fighters took their revenge from the Bristol boys last night in the amateur boxing show held in the Italian Mutual Aid arena by the St. Ann's Athletic Association. Ten bouts were fought under the supervision of the Middle Atlantic district of the Amateur Athletic Union.

Nine of the total bouts saw Bristol youths pitted against Philadelphia's best and only one emerged victorious and that was via the knock-out route when Tony Maglione, lanky St. Ann's fighter, stopped Joe Martino, Mason, in the second round.

Tony Maglione counted the Purple and Gold's lone triumph. His cool and collective style was too much for Joe Martino, Mason. Martino made the error of trying to mix it up with Maglione in the first and before he knew it Maglione was working his cylinder punches to both the head and body of his opponent. Martino hit the canvas but got up after a count of eight. In the second Martino again went down and when down for the third time, Referee Morris stopped the fight, giving it to Maglione on a technical knock-out.

Most of the fans present last night thought that Harry Davis, local colored battler, had the best of his tilt with Frank Donofrio, Middle Atlantic middle-weight champion, and when the decision was given to Donofrio at the end, they booed and howled. This fight was close throughout. Davis landed the most stinging blows and was the aggressor for the entire three rounds.

Two boys who could hit last night were Vince Della, St. Ann's, and Tony Saraullo, Seymour, mixed it up in the semi-final and the hard-earned decision went to Saraullo, winner of the Camden tournament last week. After sparring for a while, Saraullo caught Della flush on the cheek with a short hook and the Bristol youth went down for a count of nine. Towards the end of the round, Della shook Saraullo with two left hooks to the stomach but rushing in for the third one was met with another straight right of the Seymour battler and was right up.

Saraullo carried the second round by his two-fisted swinging. He landed several hard rights to Della's jaw but the localite took them without wincing. The final chapter was the only one credited to Della.

After a four-months' lay-off, Tally Seiarra, St. Ann's glover, returned to the ring and gave a wonderful exhibition against Frank Carpinelli, Seymour. Carpinelli carried the decision but the gameness of the Bristolian stood out. He had Carpinelli down on one knee in the first and met his opponent punch for punch throughout. Only the fact that Carpinelli was more experienced gave him the decision. After an even first, the Seymour fighter took the second and third sessions. Sciarra was staggered with two rights early in the third session and it looked bad but he got his second wind and fought the Seymour man toe to toe for the remainder of the session.

Jimmy Gallone, St. Ann's, lost his battle with Thomas Darico, Seymour, by virtue of a technical knock-out in the first. This bout had hardly started when Gallone missed a hardy swing and threw out a joint at the shoulder. The doctor, after an examination, refused to let Gallone continue. Phil Quici, local boy, gave a slow exhibition in his go with Sid Burman, Mason. Burman did the leading and got over the most punches, while Quici could never get set to land a damaging blow on his opponent. Burman had the entire three frames.

George Jones, colored boy from the Seymour club, was handed the nod over Johnny Raccagno, St. Ann's, in the sixth bout of the night. Raccagno was credited with the hardest blows during the bout but he got over while Raccagno was working his right. In the first session towards the finish of the round, Raccagno got Jones on the chin with a right, and the colored youth's knees began to buckle but he straightened up to finish the round. Raccagno also seemed to have the better of the milling in the following two rounds, and in the second, the colored boy was running away from Raccagno. The officials gave the decision to Jones who landed most of his blows in the clinches.

The fighting little Irish youth, Lenny Dever, was a greatly improved fighter against Salvatore Manzo, Mason. Manzo won the first and third rounds with his harder blows and one-two's. Dever was given the second round by his use of a left which at one stage staggered Manzo. In the final round, Dever ran into a Manzo right which sent his head back but he clinched before Manzo could get in some more follow-ups.

After Willie Leighton, Rescue Squad, evened the fight in the second round, Carman Volio, Seymour, went out to win the last session and the decision in the night's opener. Volio won the fight by waiting for Leighton to lead and side-step to retaliate with a right and left. Volio's left to the stomach at the start of the final round, slowed up Leighton considerably. Leighton planted many rights to Volio's face in the second round.

A favorite with the Bristol crowd, Ralph Romano, Mason, took the decision over Walter Munday, colored Seymour fighter. Munday was floored three times in the fight. He went down by a right in the first and before the round was over Romano, in a flurry of rights and lefts, again made him rest on the mat but the bell intervened. Before the bell sounded ending the fight, Romano again worked his rights and lefts with fast succession to floor Munday.

It was announced that the next bouts would be held indoors, May 11th. Officials of last night's bouts were: Referee, Eddie Morris; judges, Ford Lilly and Jack Johnston; timer, Joe O'Hanlon; inspector, Joe Brown; clerk, Frank Palermo; announcer, Patsey Moffo.

The Bristol Bowling Association will hold its final season's meeting, Wednesday evening, April 29th, at eight o'clock, when it will conduct its annual election of officers and presentation of prizes. All members of the various leagues are requested to be present.

This evening the Bristol Recreation team will play the return engagement with Doylestown, whom they defeated last Saturday evening in closely contested games, Bristol winning the first game by 28 pins, losing the second by four, and winning the final game by 37 to gain the total pin advantage. This match will be held at Bristol.

A KNOCK-OUT CARD ARRANGED FOR CROYDON

In the best show ever to be arranged in this locality, Matchmaker Mickey Gordon has pitted together 10 star bouts between some of the best amateur boys in the Middle Atlantic district.

Jimmy Tygh, 126-pound Middle Atlantic champion, fresh from a victory by a knock-out in an inter-city bout in Johnson City, N. Y., will meet Willie Falconer, recent semi-finalist in the last Arena tournament. Tygh, who is a great favorite with the fans in this district by his hard and clean punching, is hard at work training, for he realizes in meeting Falconer he is going against the toughest man yet that he has been called to face.

Chester Castor, Bristol aspirant to the 112-pound championship, and one of the best little battlers to ever show his stuff to local fandom, will meet the newly-crowned champion George Kinslow, of the National C. C. Kinslow just defended his title in Camden last week and came through with flying colors.

Johnny Morgan, 135-pound Golden Glove champion, will make his first appearance to localistic fandom when he meets Al Pierce, Wharton A. C., inter-city champion, in another bout.

Billy Crawford, Daggett knock-out, who a few weeks ago knocked out Vince Della, Bristol's pride, in a minute and twenty seconds, will go an encore with Carl "Toots" Schmied. Crawford, K. O.'d Schmied in the second round of their last encounter, of a sensational fight. Schmied, a clever boy, was sailing along giving Crawford a pasting until a wild swing to the jaw floored Carl. Schmied made the mistake of getting up without taking the count and proved a sucker for Crawford's haymaker, a bit later. However, Carl says it will be a different story this time.

Fred Aspero, that great little Italian boxer from the neighborhood Club, will meet another favorite in Jim Generale of the Daggett A. C. Aspero, who had his lip cut in his last battle with Cubbins, has reported in good shape again, and had asked for a return bout with Cubbins, but the matchmaker wanted him to show his worth with Generale before his demand for a return match with Cubbins is granted. Generale, in his last fight, defeated Al Paris in a great fight at one of the local clubs.

Jimmy "Humpty" Nocito, of Bristol, the most eccentric fighter, and one who gives all he has to please the fans, will meet Walter Rhoads of the Ken. A. C. Rhoads has won his last two fights at this club, but in meeting "Humpty" he will stack up against a hard hitter and one who can take it. Joe Meyers, of Croydon, will mingle with Joe Coyle of the Neighborhood Club. Meyers has been in training for the last two weeks, and has been promised a top-notch bout if he gets over this obstacle.

Three other bouts between popular boys from Bristol who have proved their worth in the squared ring are in the making.

Johnny Straffe, who is training the Bristol boys at the Knights of Columbus Gym, and the Daggett boys at Philadelphia, has reported to the matchmaker that all the boys are fit and raring to go. He personally supervises the training of Tygh, Morgan, Generale and Crawford, and through the courtesy of Frank Craven, the rest of the boys at the Knights of Columbus Gym. He will appear in the ring as their second Wednesday night.

lin was given four bad ones and went to first. Fields slapped a single to center and when D. Seneca booted the ball, Sullivan crossed the plate. The uprising ended when Ashby whiffed.

The Fallomen had taken a one run lead in the third when with one gone, Ashby made the first hit off Ennis, a single to left. Mulligan was hit with a pitched ball and the rally seemed over when Ennis caught Ashby off second. In the run-down, Mulligan stopped at the Keystone sack. Ad Roe lifted a high fly to Seneca who dropped it and allowed Mulligan to score.

After three scoreless frames, the Mules finally dented the home pentagon in the fourth. Bud Tulio struck out but Clay missed the third strike and the batter reached first safely. Seneca forced Tulio at second. Seneca stole second. Ennis struck out. Dougherty almost took Ashby's hand off with his hit liner for a single, scoring Seneca. Bruce skied out.

Ashby was in excellent form for an opener, fanning nine Mules. Ennis and Breslin combined had eight strike-outs. Ashby was solved for four hits while Ennis was nipped for a sole bingle and Breslin, two.
